Re: I-Secure Inc.
Information Security
Grants Pass Oregon

To Whom It May Concern:

I am the administrator for four medical offices in Jackson County. For several years, I used the services of a large document shredding company to dispose of sensitive medical documents and financial information. The service with this provider was marginally adequate; my staff tolerated missed pick up dates, inflexible schedules, rude employees, and I tolerated creeping prices. With complex operational demands filling my day, I easily found excuses to continue using the vendor in spite of these irritations.

Unsolicited, Lowell Anderson, owner of I-Secure, visited one of our offices and so impressed the supervisor with his friendly yet professional attitude, that she really encouraged me to consider a change and talk with him about his services.

Lowell visited the office again, provided professional quality information for me to consider, referred me to his website, and followed up with a thank you note. He was patient with me as I took time to consider and evaluate his proposal and costs.

Based on his costs for services, the fact that his company is local, his approach with my office staff, and direct local control over the services offered, I made the decision to switch to I-Secure. Immediately, the staff from my offices started offering unsolicited comments about the appearance and friendliness of the representatives who picked up documents at their clinic. They act appropriately when on site, respecting the environment we create for our patients.

I would recommend giving serious consideration to Lowell and the information security services his business can provide for you.

Sincerely,
